SESSION SPONSOR: CHARLES COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Outcomes:

- increased awareness of the educational opportunities in our region
- increased awareness of how all students are prepared for success, regardless of abilities, and the transition process through their life span, from elementary through post-secondary to employment
- increased understanding of students' insight of SOMD education from one segment of the student population
- increased understanding of disability support services and the roles of parents, students, educators, and employers
- awareness of the work, products, and people associated with education in our region and the importance of budgets, facilities, competence, and assessments required to meet the mission
- an understanding of the essential partnerships and local access among educational providers and our communities

Connect the Dots:

- What are valuable/important aspects of our region's educational offerings for youth, for families, for adults?
- What partnerships are in place to strengthen the region's access for educational successes?
- What impacts have population growth and budget challenges had on education efforts in our region and what does the future look like for our region in this area?
- How can LSM class members and their organizations support public and private educational opportunities and initiatives in our region?

2018 SPOTLIGHT SPONSOR

The College of Southern Maryland (CSM) is a public, regional community college with a far-reaching mission — to help our students and community meet the challenges of individual, social, and global changes.

CSM is a thriving, progressive, and technologically advanced college that delivers quality higher education programs and services. The college is committed to offering a wide variety of learning options, student services, and high-quality workforce development training and support. That commitment is reflected in those we serve. More than 60 percent of tri-county residents who attend higher education institutions come to CSM.

The staff and faculty at CSM work closely with a diverse student population to provide a rich variety of educational options. CSM is a leader among Maryland community colleges in offering courses, which meet the busy schedules of our students, including weekend and evening online classes, and Web-hybrid courses which offer a mix of online and traditional classroom face-to-face instruction. CSM strives to create a global education program, yet remains a local college that has a real stake in supporting our community's academic, professional, and self-enrichment pursuits.

CSM offers courses at three campus locations and several specialty centers in Southern Maryland for your convenience.

BIOGRAPHIES

SPEAKERS:

GLENNIS DANIELS-BACCHUS, Associate Director of Disability Support Services & ADA Coordinator, College of Southern Maryland, La Plata Campus

Glennis Daniels-Bacchus is the associate director of the College of Southern Maryland's Disability Support Services and the college's ADA coordinator. Disability Support Services (DSS) is dedicated to helping students with disabilities reach their personal, academic, and career goals. Daniels-Bacchus works with her team to help remove barriers that limit opportunities, and provide equal access to everything that the College of Southern Maryland has to offer. For additional information on services, visit <https://www.csm.edu/student-services/disability-support-services/>

Daniels-Bacchus is joined at today's Education Day by members of the transition team to offer meaningful discussion about how they work together, within the school system and with students and parents, to address issues or concerns regarding the preparation of students with disabilities transitioning to post-secondary or employment. The transition team includes: Christina Sprague, Transition Specialist, Charles County Public Schools; Paul Reilly, Secondary Transition & Alternate Assessment Specialist, Calvert County Public Schools; Jennifer Haley-Walker, Transition Specialist, St Mary's County Public Schools; Denise Paone, Human Resources Specialist, Naval Air Warfare Center Aircraft Division; Renata Zgorski, Disability Services Coordinator, CSM Prince Frederick Campus; and Megan Rabie, Disability Support Coordinator, CSM Leonardtown Campus.

RICHARD CONLEY, Principal, St. Charles High School

Mr. Conley was appointed by the Board of Education to serve as the first principal of St. Charles High School in 2013. His career in education began at Westlake High School in 2003 where he served as a Spanish teacher. From 2003 to 2007, Conley worked as a classroom teacher, student council sponsor, and administrative assistant at Westlake. In 2008, he was named a vice principal at Henry E. Lackey High School.

Conley has a bachelor's degree in foreign language education, and government and politics from the University of Maryland College Park. He also has a master's degree in educational administration from McDaniel College.

DR. MAUREEN MURPHY, President, College of Southern Maryland

President of the College of Southern Maryland (CSM) since July 1, 2017, Dr. Maureen Murphy has been connected with community colleges for nearly 30 years including a decade as a community college president.

Most recently, Murphy served as president of Brookdale Community College, a multi-campus community college in New Jersey, where she forged partnerships with community organizations, school districts, business and industry, donors, and other higher education institutions. Among her initiatives were developing early college high school programs, launching a College Promise program for free tuition for all qualified graduates and spearheading a Minority Male Conference to support the academic achievement of minority male students.

Before her appointment at Brookdale in 2012, she served as president of San Jacinto College South in Houston, Texas, and as vice president at both Rappahannock Community College and Wytheville Community College in Virginia. Murphy began her career teaching English at St. Louis Community College-Meramec, where she later served as a dean. Murphy has been an active member of the American Association for Women in Community Colleges since 1995, and has served on the national board including two years as president since 2007.

She has received numerous awards including the Shirley B. Gordon Award of Distinction by Phi Theta Kappa, the Distinguished Corporate Leadership Award by the Greater Red Bank NAACP and the Carolyn DesJardins CEO of the Year Award by AAWCC. Currently, Murphy is on the board of directors for the American Association of Community Colleges, the national organization representing more than 1,100 colleges.

Murphy earned her bachelor's degree in English from the University of Louisville, her master's degree in English from the University of Missouri – Columbia and her doctorate in American Studies from Saint Louis University.

ANNA KEPHART, Southern Maryland Studies Center Coordinator

Anna Kephart is the Coordinator of the Southern Maryland Studies Center, a local history archive and research center at the La Plata campus of the College of Southern Maryland. The Southern Maryland Studies Center documents the history and culture of Calvert, Charles, and St. Mary's Counties, and is open to the public throughout the year.

JASON MORGAN, Regional Director, Eastern Maryland & Regional Center Operation for UMUC

Jason Morgan is currently the eastern regional director for the University of Maryland University College, Regional Center Operations. He is responsible for ensuring that the Dorsey Station, Arundel Mills, Laurel College Center, Largo Advising, Waldorf Center for Higher Education, and Southern Maryland Higher Education centers provide high-quality service and support to UMUC students. These centers provide students with a one-stop shop environment. Morgan has been with UMUC since January 2016.

In 2009, Morgan began his career in higher education as an admissions advisor. In 2013, he served as a director of recruitment and retention in the Military Campus Program department of Hawaii Pacific University. During his time with Hawaii Pacific University, Morgan was responsible for the design and implementation of recruitment and retention strategies. He consistently exceeded new and returning student enrollment targets leading to year over year growth across five locations on the island of Oahu, Hawaii.

Morgan earned his bachelor's degree in sociology and business from Cornell University, an MBA from Keller Graduate School and is currently pursuing a Doctorate of Education (Ed.D), higher education administration with the University of Southern California.

DR. MEL D. POWELL, Executive Director, Southern Maryland Higher Education Center

Dr. Melchior (Mel) Powell is the executive director of the Southern Maryland Higher Education Center (SMHEC), a position he has held since April 1, 1997. Powell has 40 years of experience in higher education administration. Prior to joining SMHEC, he served as dean of the Graduate Center for Public Policy and Administration at California State University, Long Beach, a graduate school and research center that focused on local government administration. He also held research positions for 10 years in Washington DC, principally at the National Association of Counties and the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Powell completed his military obligation as a naval officer attached to the staff of CINCLANTFLT. He has a Ph.D. in government and politics from the University of Maryland at College Park, a master's in governmental administration from George Washington University, and a law degree from the University of Baltimore.

DR. CHRISTINE A. WOOLEY, Chair & Associate Professor of English, St. Mary's College of Maryland

Christine A. Wooley, Ph.D. is chair and associate professor of English at St. Mary's College of Maryland, where she also serves as interim associate dean of curriculum. Her research centers on the intersections of money, feeling, and social change in nineteenth-century US literature, and she has published articles and book chapters on turn-of-the-century African-American writers. As chair, she has participated in the "DH for Department Chairs and Deans" seminar at the Digital Humanities Summer Institute and regularly attends ADE Summer Seminars. These experiences have shaped her administrative work, particularly her approach to the department's external review and the development of both assessment protocols and initiatives for curricular revisions. She's also participated in strategic planning and the implementation of college-wide assessment structures and procedures. Her work as an associate dean is similarly focused on curricular revision and developing effective supports for teaching.

PROGRAM ADVOCATES:

KATIE O'MALLEY-SIMPSON APR, LSM'16, Director of Communications & Media Relations, Charles County Public Schools

Katie O'Malley-Simpson is the director of Communications and Media Relations for Charles County Public Schools. O'Malley-Simpson's professional experience spans more than 30 years and she has been on the job in Charles County as a reporter, editor, graphic designer, webmaster, leader, crisis manager, writer, spokesperson, and community volunteer.

O'Malley-Simpson began calling Charles County home at age 23 after landing a reporting job at the Maryland Independent. She spent the next 16 years working at the local newspaper, filling the roles of reporter, news editor, managing editor, and, finally, editor-in-chief.

In 1994, O'Malley-Simpson accepted a public relations job with Charles County Public Schools where she co-developed the school system's first website while serving as a graphic designer, writer, and editor. Later, she was promoted to her current position as director of communications/ media relations to guide the school system's website, television station, and public image. Most recently, O'Malley-Simpson attained national certification in public relations (APR).

O'Malley-Simpson and her husband, Tom, live in Port Tobacco along with a dog and a cat left behind by their two adult children.

LARISA PFEIFFER LSM'16, Community Relations Coordinator, College of Southern Maryland

Larisa Pfeiffer is a proud member of the Leadership Southern Maryland Class of 2016. She has a B.S. in business from the University of Maryland and a M.A. in public relations, advertising, and applied communication from Southern New Hampshire University. She gladly uses her skills and talents to support the mission and students of the College of Southern Maryland (CSM) where she has grown her local professional career since 2009 and is honored to be a five-time CSM employee recognition award winner.

Pfeiffer is a champion of students of all ages. “We all wake up each morning with the ability to make choices – CSM students are special. They choose every day to attend classes at CSM. They choose every day to learn, grow, and embrace the opportunities that acquiring knowledge and skills creates for them.”

Serving the community and CSM students is where Pfeiffer finds her greatest motivation. She gives back to her community in her role as vice president of the board of directors for the Center for Children - the center believes that every child in need should have the opportunity to receive quality mental health care; serving communities in Charles, St. Mary's, Calvert, Anne Arundel, Howard, and lower Prince George's. Please ask how you can serve -- she will be happy to show you the way.

Growing up as the daughter of a career military general allowed Larisa to experience different cultures both nationally and internationally, giving her a world view that people, “truly are more alike than they are different,” a sentiment she attributes to the late Maya Angelou.

KAREN SMITH HUPP, LSM'15, Assistant Vice President, Community Relations, College of Southern Maryland

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/karensmithhupp>

Karen Smith Hupp is the assistant vice president of community relations for the College of Southern Maryland. She has been associated with the college since 1999, working to strategically develop community, media, and public relations to promote goodwill and nurture strong relationships.

An alumna of The Ohio State University, Smith Hupp earned her bachelor's degree in journalism/ public relations. She is passionate about inspiring the next generation of PR professionals and, in that pursuit, authors several blogs on PR topics and serves as a frequent workshop presenter and as a mentor with students.

A resident of Southern Maryland since 1982, she quickly familiarized herself with the community in her first job locally as copy editor and later as community editor with the Maryland Independent. As executive editor for the Times-Crescent, Calvert Independent, South County Current and St. Mary's Tide, Smith Hupp covered the challenges facing Southern Maryland from both the regional and individual county perspectives.

Within the field of public relations, Smith Hupp was the public information officer for Charles County Government and, simultaneously, Charles County's tourism officer. She has volunteered extensively throughout her career, producing brochures, newsletters, photography, video features, and media releases, as well as conducting annual fund campaigns and special events for numerous organizations.

She and her husband, Dale, live in La Plata and have four children and a grandson. A true believer of lifelong learning, Smith Hupp enjoys each new adventure — her most recent, sampling the tools of the backpack journalist.

UNIQUE EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

St. Mary's College of Maryland:

St Mary's College of Maryland, designated the state's honors college, and is an independent public institution in the liberal arts tradition. We promote scholarship and creativity by challenging our students to achieve academic excellence through close relationships with faculty, classroom activities, and experiential learning. Our faculty and staff foster intellectual, social, and ethical development within a community dedicated to diversity and accessibility. We provide students with opportunities to understand and serve local, national, and global communities and to accomplish social change.

Founded on the site of Maryland's first capital, the College stands as a living legacy to the ideals of freedom and inclusiveness. Our beautiful residential campus on the banks of the St. Mary's River inspires our work, our play, and our commitment to the environment.

SMCR, Inc - Inclusive Programs for People with Developmental Differences

SMCR, Inc. provides award winning social, educational and recreational programs and events for people with developmental differences in Southern Maryland. Our mission is to celebrate all abilities by fostering friendships, promoting healthy lifestyle and encouraging lifelong learning. SMCR programs are based on the interests and needs of our members and their families. Membership is free and open to anyone. Programs are offered at little or no cost, helping people with developmental differences to participate fully in their community.

Southern Maryland Higher Education Center:

Southern Maryland Higher Education Center focuses on providing highly developed and comprehensive academic and professional development educational opportunities at the graduate and upper undergraduate level to a workforce of knowledge workers engaged in technology, teaching, management, health and other professional services. The academic programs and other professional development opportunities offered by distinguished universities recruited by SMHEC for presentation provide an opportunity for citizens in the region to achieve their potential in their chosen professional fields and to advance the economic and social development of the region.

SMHEC also facilitates the advancement and growth of the Naval Air Station at Patuxent River through partnerships with nationally ranked universities providing high technology and management academic programs facilitating the creation of a new national high technology center of excellence in multiple naval aviation specializations.

Southern Maryland Studies Center

The Southern Maryland Studies Center documents the history and culture of Calvert, Charles, and St. Mary's Counties, and is open to the public throughout the year.

Summit Learning Platform:

The Summit Learning Platform allows students to become empowered and self-directed learners—they set goals for their learning, reflect on their progress and build habits and mindsets to help them succeed in college, career and life with mentorship from their teachers. Teachers have the tools they need to customize instruction to meet student's unique needs and interests, as well as the time and support to build strong relationships with students.

Waldorf Center for Higher Education

The Waldorf Center for Higher Education was founded in 1997 to offer associate and bachelor degrees through the CSM/UMUC Alliance, a partnership between the College of Southern Maryland (CSM) and the University of Maryland University College (UMUC).

Today, the Waldorf Center continues to innovate by offering students the convenience of affordable, local learning with the quality and diverse program and degree offerings of UMUC, Towson University, and Notre Dame of Maryland University. Students can choose the degree program from our universities that will best match their personal, career and academic goals.

The Waldorf Center for Higher Education provides daytime, part- and full-time, evening and weekend programs to meet the scheduling needs of our students. In addition, certificate, online and accelerated courses are available for those students needing an additional challenge or seeking to fast track their degree and careers.

In addition, the Waldorf Center for Higher Education is linked to local and regional businesses, government agencies and healthcare and educational organizations so we can constantly improve our programs and prepare our students to meet our students' and communities' changing workforce and educational needs.
